

I am writing out of concern regarding Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force its stations nationwide to air the anti-Kerry program "Stolen Honour."

Perhaps programs such as this which malign progressive politics are in the best interest of the station, but they are not in the best interest of our democracy. Should Sinclair feel obliged to air such biased material immediately before an important election, they should balance that with programming representing the opposing viewpoints.

As I understand it, failure to do so will be a violation of FCC regulations.

They should be informed that infringement of such regulations will be held against them when they apply for renewal of their broadcasting license.

As a voting, taxpaying American who reveres our Constitution, I hope to see our public airwaves preserved for impartial information flow, rather than blatant propagandizing.

Thank you.

Evan Ray